

Environmental Awareness

Introduction

This course is designed for anyone wishing to understand the broad environmental issues in any organisation; whether it is an organisation about to embark on the implementation of a formal environmental management system (ISO14001/EMAS) or an organisation with an EMS that needs their employees to have a greater level of understanding. It is particularly useful for managers and supervisors but it is equally beneficial to all employees, team leaders, technicians or any other personnel.

Course Location

On site at your premises or at our dedicated training facility.

Course Duration

Half day.

Key Topics

- General introduction.
- Awareness of global, national and local environmental issues.
- Commitment
- The consequences of personal and organisational actions.
- Different approaches to environmental management and systems from “real life” examples.
- Identification of environmental issues in the workplace.
- Identification of ways to reduce environmental impact.
- Two interactive workshops designed for the delegate to implement environmental improvement to their workplace.

Qualification

On attending the course the delegate will be awarded a certificate of course completion.

All courses are delivered by qualified trainers with practical experience

FOR AVAILABLE DATES PLEASE CALL: 01902 771311

Mail: andrew.fletcher@esp.uk.net

Website: www.esp.uk.net